Introduction

For the implementation of the project entitled Women, families, careers - Digital solutions in adult education within the framework of the Small-scale partnerships in adult education (KA210-ADU) it is necessary to know the characteristic documents published in relation to digitization.

These professional materials provide a suitable background for the development of the "Collection of Digital Applications".

The Family-Friendly Hungary Center Nonprofit Közhasznú Kft. (Családbarát Magyarország Központ Nonprofit Közhasznú Kft.) and the three NGOs will work together on the implementation of the project.

The task of the participating organizations is to search for and collect digital solutions used in the various fields in each country (Hungary, Czech Republic, Slovakia), which have not been widely distributed, but can be used in daily life for women and families.

The use of digital tools and methods is extremely important for daily life, work, and the lifelong learning of adults.

Compared to before Covid, the digitalization situation has changed significantly after Covid, but it can be seen that catching up would be necessary from the point of view of women and families. This was also confirmed by the findings of the Association for Women's Career Development in Hungary, the Czech Business & Professional Women CR z.s. and the Slovak Association of Business Women and managers participating in the research project "Women, Family and Career - the impact of the pandemic on work-life balance in the V4 countries" (October 1, 2021 - April 30, 2022). All three organizations thought similarly. At that time, the guidelines were formulated by the Association for Women's Career Development in Hungary as the coordinator of the Visegrad project.

It is important for women and families to be able to move safely and easily in the digital space, but this requires information and guidance. The applications collected as a result of our partnership and the developed training material help users, women and families in this.

- 1. The digital background in the European Union and in the countries of the partner organizations
- 1.1. The most important documents issued in the field of digitization in the European Union 2018-2022

Digital development and progress are changing the lives of women and families, for which we must constantly prepare.

This experience was also confirmed by the data published by the European Union in 2021. The number of adults with basic digital skills is currently 56%, and it would be important to reach 80% as a target ("Road to the digital decade: joint management and coordinated investments in the digital transformation of the EU until 2030" Europe's Digital Decade: digital targets for 2030)

It is clear that digital technologies play an important role in the European economy and society, in the realization of climate neutrality, job creation, education and the development of new digital skills, competitiveness and innovation, as well as in creating a livable world for citizens. (Council conclusions on shaping Europe's digital future (2020/C 202 I/01))

In the 21st century, digital transformation is vital for daily life and work, which also means a cultural transformation at the same time.

Legislation, directives, guidelines, decisions, research, studies, theses appearing in the digital field also show the importance of the field.

The decision of the European Union and the Council states that the economy and citizens must be included in the digital transformation. DECISION (EU) 2022/2481 OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL of 14 December 2022 establishing the Digital Decade Policy Program 2030 Policy Program 2030)

The goal is to enable digitally prepared citizens to take advantage of the opportunities offered by the digital decade. Within this framework, it is necessary to focus on the main areas:

- key public services are also crucially dependent on digital technologies,
- citizens and businesses must be able to communicate digitally with public administration bodies,
- · health documentation should also be electronic,
- digitalization is also relevant in every day lives of people, such as losing or finding a job, learning, shopping, fast communication, obtaining information, banking transactions, transportation, culture, starting a business.

The EU is going to implement the digital transformation by 2030, which will be also helped through multi-country projects.

One of the main goals of the European Commission's declaration is to put people at the center of the digital transformation. (European Declaration on Digital rights and principles for the Digital Decade COM (2022) 27).

This Declaration as well as to enhance digital skills and competencies and foster a high-performing digital education ecosystem.

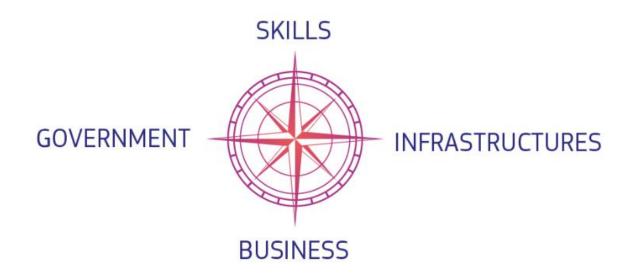

The EU has published its directive "Digital Compass 2030: The European Way to Deliver the Digital Decade" emphasizing the importance of the digital education of the population and presenting the vision of a digitally transformed Europe until 2030 in line with European values. (Digital Compass: the European way for the Digital Decade COM (2021) 118):

The EU's "Digital Decade" policy program for 2030 is the guide for the digital transformation of Europe, which includes the specific goals and objectives:

- emphasizing the importance of lifelong learning by involving existing state and civil networks,
- changes in the labor market, everyone must consider what new profession and/or skills and abilities they acquire,
- implementation of programs suitable for effective and mass development of digital competence. The lack of knowledge of digital tools and platforms should not be an obstacle in the participation in training, neither for the population nor for the employees.

In this complex development process, women and families have an outstanding role.

Today, fewer women are interested in the digital sector. The European Commission's study entitled "Women in the digital age 2018" confirms this trend.

It is also worth paying attention to research. It is recommended to solve the talent and labor shortage with women: Women in tech: The best bet to solve Europe's talent shortage¹.

In order for Europe to remain competitive in terms of technological growth and innovation, it is necessary to recruit and retain women in the fastest growing technological roles foreseen.

In its action plan on digital education, the European Union prioritizes increasing the digital competences of women. (Digital Education Action Plan 2021-27).

¹ McKinsey Digital 2023 január https://www.mckinsey.com/capabilities/mckinsey-digital/our-insights/women-in-tech-the-best-bet-to-solve-europes-talent-shortage

Basic digital skills are required to live our lives, learn, communicate and participate in society. Education plays a prominent role in all of this.

The EU Council issued a statement in the form of a press release, in which it provides guidelines on putting people at the center of digital transformation.

(Declaration on digital rights and principles: EU values and citizens at the center of digital transformation²; Council of the EU Press release 15 December 2022 Declaration on digital rights and principles: EU values and citizens at the centre of digital transformation).

- 1.2. Digital development requires measurement to move forward
- 1. The Digital Economy and Society Index (DESI) introduced by the European Commission to measure the digital economic and social development of member states.

The annual DESI index has four parameters:

- Integration of digital technology
- Human capital
- Connectivity
- Digital publik services

The figure above clearly shows the place of Hungary, the Czech Republic and Slovakia among the member states of the European Union.

The European Commission's 2022 Digital Economy and Society Index (DESI) shows that there is a general upward trend in the region, but digital challenges remain.

Most European countries are making progress in the digital transformation, but the adoption of key digital technologies in the economic sphere remains low.

2. Measuring basic skills is also important

3. Women in Digital Scoreboard³ (WiD)

The WiD Scoreboard is one of the measures introduced to measure the inclusion of women in digital jobs, careers and entrepreneurship. The scoreboard evaluates the performance of the member states based on 12 indicators

- internet use, a
- internet user skills, as well as
- in the field of professional knowledge and employment.

1.3. Project partners' countries' relevant documents in the field of digitalization

Keeping pace in the constantly changing and developing digital world is a big challenge for all generations.

The steps of today's technical development are followed by data-based analyses, which are accompanied by decision-making processes, strategic proposals of the European Union and national digitization strategies until 2030.

Digital developments change our lives in communication, work, education, everyday life, and our private lives.

The appearance of Covid 19 created a different living situation than before and accelerated digital technology development.

The digitalization strategy and program of the countries participating in the project are in line with the European Union directives. The four organizations collaborating in the project can identify with all of this.

Our project actively contributes to the creation of a more livable digital environment in the three countries, but the method can be spread to other countries as well.

Czech Republic

The National Reform Program⁴ of the Czech Republic includes digital transformation.

More details can be found in the following documents: Digital Government Factsheet 2019 Czech Republic⁵ Digital skills and their development in the Czech Republic⁶

Hungary

After completing the implementation of the National Infocommunications Strategy for the period 2014-2020 and the Digital Wellbeing Program 2.0 ("DJP 2.0") launched in 2017, in the fall of 2021 Hungary adopted a new strategic framework for the next 10 years, for the period 2021-2030 National Digitalization Strategy (NDS). The strategy was built around four main pillars corresponding to the dimensions of DESI: digital state, digital economy, digital infrastructure and digital competence.

The overall goal of the NDS is to identify and exploit the opportunities inherent in digitization in the economy, education, research and development, innovation and public administration. All of this improves the country's competitiveness and well-being. Hungary's goal is to exceed the EU average in terms of digital development by the middle of the decade, and to be one of the 10 leading EU economies in digitalization by 2030.

The XXI. Hungary's achievements so far in the field of digital education in the 20th century:

- An organizational unit supporting the Digital Pedagogical Methodology Center was created.
 Its importance is indicated by the fact that 1536/2016. (X. 13.) By government decision for the digital transformation of the public education, vocational training, higher education and adult education systems.
- The results of domestic model projects and pilots are processed and analyzed (e.g.: Telenor, Vodafone, Samsung, Magyar Telekom, Microsoft, LEGO, etc.) for further development.
- They support the sharing of digital pedagogical experiences and good practices
- A framework and a measurement and evaluation tool suitable for measuring digital competences were created.
- The implementation of Hungary's Digital Education Strategy is monitored annually with a monitoring system.

- "National Digitalization Strategy" (NDS).

Both documents deal with the digital skills of women and families. The goal is for Hungary to be as prepared as possible for the digital transformation and to be among the top ten countries in the ranking of European countries by 2030 in terms of digitalization.

Some elements of the Hungarian Digital Welfare Program (DJP):

- Development of digital competences among women and businesses as well
- Women prepare useful practices against cyber bullies for the sake of their children and grandchildren⁷
- Recommendations are also being made for women to manage their finances remotely and electronically⁸
- methodological recommendations for the digital work schedule in public education⁹
- The Digital Chronicle was published¹⁰

- Digital state

The new NDS layes a strong emphasis on priorities.¹²

Slovakia

The National Reform Program¹³ of the Slovak Republic includes the framework for digital transformation. A complex document on digital transformation has been prepared: 2030 Digital Transformation Strategy for Slovakia Strategy for transformation of Slovakia into a successful digital country¹⁴

2. The collection of the digital applications

Digital proficiency is essential for work and life in the digitized world.

Today's modern IT is much more accessible and provides a more natural user experience than even ten years ago.

Rapid digitalization has transformed the relationships and characteristics of work and everyday life.

This chapter presents our aspects we have considered during the selecting and collecting applications

This period is just a snapshot in terms of technical development and the digital transition. At the same time, in our the Collection of Digital Applications valuable applications will be shared with as many people as possible enabling them to use as many applications as possible, even if the change is rapid. With its help, on the one hand, digital practice is strengthened, and on the other hand, new ideas and developments can be induced.

The Collection of Digital Applications is an important document, the distribution of which helps the digital transition. We will distribute the applications through the members of the partner organizations. In this way, the Collection reaches different age groups of women and, through them, families. The digital approach may help to change the way of life and also to solve work tasks in all three countries.

Target groups: Women of all ages and families

In each country, applications have been selected that help in solving the tasks of daily life and daily work, in weekend programs and/or simplify the delivery of information or, if necessary, its revival. Among the applications, there may be internationally widely used and developed in the given country, or adopted from another country. With the help of widely used digital applications, work and private life can be better coordinated.

Our project plays an important role in the cooperation between the participating countries, in that citizens and partner organizations are encouraged to cooperate and learn from each other, to introduce applications to each other and to exchange good practices.

Digital products, their development, use, and environmental footprint also help to move towards sustainable behavior. Even if they are "flash products". After all, digital technology changes and develops rapidly. In such circumstances, the education and training system, the lifelong learning approach, which is increasingly becoming part of the digital transformation, all have a major role to play.

It is necessary to involve all citizens in digital education using various methods, and provide them with digital competencies (knowledge, skills and attitudes). Because they have to live, work, learn and thrive in a developing world dominated by digital technologies.

In the Czech Republic, Hungary and Slovakia, the older persons should be paid special attention among the various female age groups. It is very important that the older people can also use IT tools to manage their daily tasks and things to do. For example, the identity card, driver's license, etc., or bank transfers, deposits, etc.

In addition, it is necessary to continuously improve the digital knowledge of all citizens in accordance with the pace of technical development.

The completed collections also serve educational purposes and are available to anyone.

In the European Union, the active involvement and commitment of the public and all interested parties is essential for the implementation of a successful digital transformation.

2.1. Areas of the Collection of Digital Applications

The activity of our task in the project is the compilation of the Collection of Digital Applications. For this, the areas in which applications are used or can be used in the partnering countries have been defined. In the Czech Republic, Hungary and Slovakia, many applications are used whose language is English. Some of these have already been translated into the language of the given country. In all three countries, many applications were collected, which are their own development, in their own language. In the Collection those applications are summarized which have been created in English and those in the national language used and developed by the countries at the given moment (December 2023).

The role and place of applications in family life can vary, and may be influenced by many factors. Some points to consider:

- Communication and contact: Applications enable quick and easy communication between family members. Chat apps, video calls, and social media make it easier to keep in touch, especially when we live far apart.
- Shared activities: With the help of applications, we can play games, watch movies or listen to music together. For example, in a family group chat we can share our latest experiences or plan joint programs.
- Managing family things to do: With calendar and reminder applications, it is easier to organize family events, meetings, birthdays and other important dates.
- > Education and learning: Educational applications can help children learn, for example, in language or mathematics.
- ➤ Health and safety: With health applications we can monitor our health, and with security applications we can track the location of family members or ask for help in an emergency.
- Access to information: With the help of applications, family members can quickly access information. Whether it's news, weather, health advice or any other topic, apps make data easily accessible.
- Work and productivity: Many applications help work and efficiency. Calendar and task management applications, document management software and remote work support tools all contribute to the productivity of families.
- Entertainment and leisure: Games, streaming services, music players and movie watching applications all contribute to the entertainment and recreation of families.

It is important that because every family is different, the use of applications enables personalization. The most important thing is that communication and understanding between family members is maintained, and that the applications only help as a tool in certain situations.

Based on all these aspects, the main areas of the applications were determined. It would have been possible to consider additional areas, too. This only happened once in case of the Slovak partner.

The main areas are the following:

- 1. Visual, creative applications
- 2. Social media applications

2.2. Some definitions for proper guidance

It is important to list some definitions, which should be read before starting our work.

The podcast is not to be confused with the mobile app

The word podcast was created by combining the words "iPod" (Apple's music player) and "broadcast". A podcast is an audio material that is published by its creator on the Internet. Due to the many thematic podcasts, we can easily find many different or new information about a specific topic enabling us to gain up-to-date knowledge.

The mobile application: is a software that can be downloaded to smartphones by the users, for several tasks and services.

The small, usually square images (icons) that appear on the home screen of the mobile phones (smartphones) usually belong to an application. The user starts the given application by clicking on the icon.

The following are applications on the smartphone:

- various maps and navigation programs;
- programs enabling listening to music or reading electronic books;
- programs that support online shopping, use of services or payment;
- the games
- mobile browser programs that can be used to access pages on the Internet called the Web.

The Apps have many advantages and disadvantages compared to the pages displayed in the mobile browsers. It depends on the given goal and the available resources in which direction to go.

Applications used on a PC (Personal Computer) also belong here.

There are several applications that can be used on both smartphones and PCs.

It is advisable to draw attention to data security in all digitization activities. Data security is the protection of data against unauthorized access, modification, deletion, and destruction. That means the protection of the confidentiality, availability and integrity of the data. Data security is an extremely complex concept, it is difficult to quantify, and it depends on a number of technical and human skills and knowledge. In the data security section, developers share information about how their app handles the data of the users enabling them to take decision before downloading. Digital data protection is therefore extremely important for women and families. Some recommendations for staying digital safe:

- Discussion and trust: Sit down and discuss the risks and benefits of the online world. You have to listen to each other and trust each other.
- Rules and restrictions: Common rules for the use of mobile and Internet devices must be created. These rules must be followed and adhered to consistently.
- Awareness and education: Learning about the digital world together. You need to know the basics of data protection and pay attention to the risks.
- Control of mobile applications: If their children use mobile applications, they should be controlled about what data is collected about them. Choose apps that respect your privacy.
- Rights and responsibility: Digital rights must be known and children must be taught. Everyone should be confident and careful in the online space.

Data protection helps protect family relationships and a safe digital environment.

2.3. Tabular processing of applications collected as a result of our development

Explanation to the title line of the Tables 1

The title line of the tables are partly the same for the collection and selection of the "good practices".

Applications collected to table number 1.

a. The serial number of the area.

It is the same as the numbering of the areas.

If someone wants to enter a new area because it is characteristic in the given country, it should be placed at the end of the numbering.

- b. Name of the free use and /or governmental application
- c. Link to the free use and /or governmental application

The link is important for accessibility because there are applications available on both mobile and PC.

d. How to download the application

Especially in the case of mobile applications, it is necessary to ad a description.

e. Field of the application, functions

It is important in which area it can be used and exactly what it can be used for.

f. Purpose of the application in everyday life

g. Who can use it

h. Mobile App:

on the Android operating system from Google Play, on iOS from the AppStore, platform independent On which mobile phone can the application be used?

i. PC

It is possible that the application can be used on PC. It is also possible that it can be used both on mobile and PC.

j. Data security

Before installing an application from e.g. Google Play, it is advisable to check the Data Security section of the application. Developers share information about how their app handles personal data in the Data Security section. This helps the users to decide whether to use that app or not.

k. Application language

In which languages is the app available? Please list all languages.

3. Good Practices selected from the Collection of Applications

3.1. Principles of choosing Good Practices

The project "Women, family, career - Digital solutions in adult learning" aims to develop digital skills and support women and families in the digital space. In the project, the Family-Friendly Hungary Centre cooperates with three NGOs from the Czech Republic, Hungary and Slovakia. The partners searched for and collected digital solutions useful for women and families and selected good practices.

103

The impact of using digital applications:

- The digital skills of women and families are developed.
- They increase the chances of women and family members on the labor market.
- Through online platforms, they can participate in community events, discussions and share their opinions.
- Enables women and families to continuously learn and grow.
- With the help of digital devices, women can communicate more easily with their family and friends and can help their children learn more effectively.

The Good Practice should be current and when used, it should fulfill the listed impacts.

Conscious moving in the online space and digital skills are important for both career and family life.

3.2. Aspects of selection of Good Practices

Using of applications has many advantages. Therefore, we set the goal in our Project that the Partners coming from 3 countries review their application collections (3) and select the most interesting and valuable ones as good practices from their own collections and from the other Partners' collections according to the followings aspects:

- 1. Efficiency: with the help of applications, we can quickly access information, perform tasks and communicate with others.
- 2. Usability: means that an application can be used easily and efficiently, helping the users to achieve their goals and to apply them in everyday life.
- 3. Convenience: applications can be used anywhere and anytime where Internet is available. It is not necessary (but it is possible) to turn on a computer or open a browser, but we can launch the application on our phone or tablet.
- 4. Personalization: Apps allow users to customize their user experience. It is possible to set users' preferences, for example to receive notifications, or users' interface, etc.
- 5. Social Integration: Apps allow users to share their experiences, opinions, results with other users.
- 6. Features: Apps offer a variety of features such as games, health trackers, educational tools, navigation aids, and more. These features make everyday life easier.
- 7. Development and innovation: Applications are constantly being developed and updated. New features, improvements and security updates are introduced, so the latest technologies are always available.
- 8. Access is possible from any IT device.

- 9. There is no similar application in the given country.
- 10. Such a complex/ comprehensive application that greatly simplifies human activity.
- 11. Suitable for learning, for fast learning
- 12. Reminders
